1 Work done in current Week (till January 29)

Currently I am studying the book 'Learning Processing: A Beginner’s guide to Programming images, Animation and Interaction’. I have finished starting two chapters of the book. I also have done some basic experimentation with processing animations and the details were given in last report. I will give a detailed report of processing after finishing the book (probably by next week).

2 Further Plans for next Week

I will continue reading the current book so that I can have a better hand at processing and I can create animations for my book with the help of processing.
